Become a Scholarship Donor With a Gift of $10,000 or More

Alumni Fund donors have a proud history of supporting Yale and its students. Those who support the Alumni Fund with gifts of $10,000 or more may name a one-year undergraduate scholarship after whomever they wish—themselves, a loved one, or a classmate—and will receive a profile of the recipient, along with special acknowledgment from the fund’s managing director.

Your Impact: Supporting Promising Students

LIANNA BYLER MY ’24

Having grown up on a farm in Pennsylvania, Lianna Byler has big plans to help protect rural communities like hers from climate change. “I intend to get involved with agriculture policy and sustainable development,” she explains. “I want to give back to ensure these places and the people who live there can adapt.” Lianna has found community at Yale within her residential college and in groups like Students for Environmental Policy Analysis. Reflecting on her path to Yale, she says, “Financial aid is the reason I’m here. Without it, none of this would be possible for me. I’m so grateful to have the chance to make the most of these incredible opportunities.”

CADE BROWN SY ’23

When long-distance runner Cade Brown first heard from Yale’s head coach of the cross-country program, he was thrilled. Now at Yale, Cade describes his athletic experience as “the most fun I’ve ever had.” And while competing and bonding with his teammates are some of his biggest joys, he is equally engaged in his studies as an environmental engineering major. Grateful for what financial aid has made possible for him, Cade says, “Without a scholarship, I would not be able to call myself a Bulldog, nor would I have crossed paths with the many people I’ve been lucky enough to call my friends here.”
